

A True Story of Destiny.

In the beginning:

There was Adam and Eve and they roamed happily around the Garden of Eden. You see, they lived in the time of the Gods and had come to Earth for the physical phase of their enlightenment.

But the Gods had progressively become displeased with the physical phase and viewed it as little less than sufficient to complete the experience of true enlightenment and learning. The Gods had too much power whilst in the physical phase and could change and manipulate their experience far too easily.

So the rules were changed. Suddenly, the Gods had no power in the physical phase. They were “naked” so to speak. They were now vulnerable, so as to truly experience the benefits to be offered by being exposed to a physical experience.

In order to complete the picture, in future one would only be able to enter into the physical phase by being “born”, i.e. starting out from scratch – an infant! And so the physical body was adapted to facilitate this entry into the physical phase. Two were needed and one had to be the medium - bonded by the proverbial “rib”, symbolizing a dependency of two, and the female being the physical medium.

In the spirit world of the Gods, the time comes to learn about the physical aspects of emotions. Together with your fellow spirits, a plan is drafted of what has to be learnt and a point of entry is chosen. Anywhere, any place on Earth, any type of family, any point in time – remember, time is relative. The birth, without any conscious memory of who you are or what you are – you’re on your own. Yet, your fellow spirits monitor your progress. Whenever in doubt, call for a lifeline. Remember that there is destiny, started by a “plan”, a plan which must be followed in order to complete the purposes of the physical phase. Your spirit guides, Gods, are there to help you stay on track, guide you and assist you when you get confused, ensure that you complete “the mission”.

You have to play the game by the rules for without rules the game has no purpose, no meaning and no achievement. Sometimes, pop in quickly for a specific experience; sometimes, you have to go the whole nine yards: From infant to aged, depending on how much of an experience needs to be gained.

In the physical phase you learn to plan, endure, appreciate, comfort, console, and grow mentally and in experience, to be dependant, to be depended upon, to be humble, to be proud, but most of all, to love both yourself and one another.

Are we being watched? Most certainly! Are we alone? Definitely not! Is there an escape route? Only temporary! You have to complete the experience. If you don’t, go back to the beginning and start again – reincarnation if you will!

Once you have completed the experience or reached “enlightenment” the journey is complete! You become an “elder” as it were and are in a position to help others to plan and prepare for their “enlightenment” – THE TREE OF KNOWLEDGE!

Bon Voyage and a safe journey!
